In Clerk Robertson's Office.
Yesterday in Clerk Robertson's office, the following transfer of real estate was recorded:

Deed, made September 14, 1897, by Peter S. Criswell and wife to Albert E. Snider; consideration $652.50; transfers one-half acre on the Hugh McAnall farm in Ritchie district.

The Session Ends.

The annual session of the grand council of West Virginia of the Junior Order of United American Mechanics came to a conclusion last evening. Only routine business of no public interest was transacted yesterday. The delegates expressed themselves as well pleased with their reception and entertainment in this city.

Benwood Robbery.

Yesterday morning at Benwood, W. F. Flynn, of Coolsville, Ohio, substitute operator at the Ohio River depot, was robbed at his boarding house of $25, by a man supposed to be Edward Fenski, of Martin's Ferry. The latter boarded at the Williams boarding house, but yesterday morning left for Martin's Ferry. He was a Riverside employe and later in the day was arrested at the request of the Benwood police. He was taken before Squire Lacey, who held him for the grand jury.

In the Courts.

Yesterday, in Part II. of the circuit court, Judge Hervey, in the case of Jane Armstrong vs. M. D. Harper, Samuel W. Harper et al., there was a final decree which quieted the title of Jane Armstrong in the deed made by Elizabeth K. Miller to her against any claim made by Sarah K. Harper, professing to act as executrix of S. B. Harper, deceased.

Mary and Frank Todd vs. D. H. and Harvey McDonald; tried before a jury, and the verdict was that certain seed in controversy was the property of Walter Marshall.

In the criminal court the following cases were considered:
State vs. Ram Austin; demurrer was argued and submitted to the court.
State vs. J. Fred Burkhardt; demurrer argued and submitted to the court.

"THE COUNTY FAIR"

Attracted a Large Number of People Last Night

DESPITE INCLEMENT WEATHER.

It was held at "Hearnes," the Country Home of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Hearnes, and though rain prevented an outdoor entertainment, an attractive Vaudeville Programme Amused the "Farmers" in an Impromptu Theatre.

Unfortunately for the success of the affair, rain greatly hampered the "County Fair" given yesterday evening under the auspices of the ladies of St. Matthew's P. E. church at "Hearnes," the handsome country home of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Hearnes, at Leatherwood, a few miles east of the city. Had the elements been of a more favorable turn, it is no exaggeration to say that with the arrangements made, the "County Fair" would have been the most beautiful and successful entertainment ever given in this city.

The arrangements were perfect, and no doubt thousands of people would have congregated around the many gaily decorated booths and tents scattered about the picturesque grounds. But it rained. The hours of this novel affair were from 4 o'clock in the afternoon to 11 o'clock at night, but the storm that came up, or rather down, at 6 o'clock sent the fairs and waitresses, with as many of their wares as they could carry, into the stable—a palatial structure which is not in harmony with its title. In this large and commodious building until nearly midnight all was concentrated, and the several hundred people that were out on the evening before were amply repaid for the journey. The vaudeville entertainment was contributed to by stars of the first magnitude.

The bowling alleys received a liberal patronage, being first on the programme after the rain. That part of the building used for the entertainment was tastefully decorated with flowers and bunting, and admission was gained only by paying the price. The crowd that soon poured in was a motley one. Mexicans mingled with Norman dames, museum freaks with buttermilk maids, and the ordinary plebeian from the town rubbed elbows with the slick fakir, the rural gentleman, etc. Above all enjoyment reigned supreme: even though out on the lawn the vari-colored lanterns twinkled dimly under the dripping trees, and though the tents and booths looked deserted in their rain-washed splendor. The gathering in the impromptu theatre was delightfully entertained.

Ed B. Franzheim had prepared a "howling success" in his "Palace of Mesmerism," but the sides of the "Palace" flapped and blew out in the gale, and hence the show was transferred, opening the menu. The first feature to attract the eyes of the gaping multitude was the "professor" with his "subjects." He was none other than Mr. George Whitaker, an adept at hypnotism. This furnished great laughter and was really a clever exhibition.

"Arizona Dick," of Greengrove, a knife thrower, contortionist and juggler, also took his audience by storm, of a different nature than overtook the fair. Other grotesquely attired performers gave the farmers in front of the stage the worth of their money. H. W. Hughes sang "I'm off for Philadelphia in the Morning." H. J. Ritter sang "Hey Rube." Miss Sue Caldwell sang "Swallows." Miss Fannie Wheat sang a selection and E. Randolph Hix rendered a French ditty, while Gilmer Brown sang a good old-fashioned song. Some distance away from the stage the Ariel Mandolin Club discoursed pleasing selections throughout the evening. There was room also for the working of sundry schemes to entice the elusive nickel. They were superintended by ladies possessed of good business methods, consequently reaping a small harvest. For producing the customary coin, Miss Lizzy Hunter made the future clear or cloudy perchance.

There was room also under the wide verandas of the house for ice cream and lemonade stands. The Opera House orchestra was at this point and its music pushed the thing along. Another attraction was the chances sold for two little pigs. These diminutive porkers were donated by Mr. Louis Steenrod, and were, as one ticket vendor remarked, "real sweet." Quite a sum was realized in disposing of the tickets that held the lucky numbers. Taken in all, the ladies in charge of the "County Fair" will have a neat balance on the right side of the ledger; but oh, if it hadn't rained!

Nevertheless it was a success, more so from a picturesque point of view than otherwise. There were very attractive costumes worn by the young ladies, that of Miss Horatio Page Ward, nee Miss Sile Mead, being particularly worthy of note. Mrs. Warden who is a niece of Mr. and Mrs. Hearnes, and now a resident of Pittsburgh, was dressed as a tambourine girl and looked very attractive.

Regrets were frequent at the rain marring the fair's success, and it was the opinion of many that a repetition under favorable conditions would be liberally rewarded. And expressions of thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Hearnes for the generous loan of their beautiful home were heard on every hand. The fair was located amid ideal surroundings, and all that was needed last night was pleasant weather and a starry sky.

The electric lights strung about the grounds were furnished by the Suburban Electric Light Company.

THERE will be free concerts at Dursi's Ice Cream Parlors, Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings, by the famous Mandolin club that made such lovely music at the fair.

Free to the School Children.
We will make a present to each school boy and girl who will call at our store. We'll tell you what it is, but will say it is something which will interest you very much.

NOTICE TO PARENTS.

School Children often injure their eyes for life by parents neglecting to attend to them. Crossed eyes, headaches and many other troubles come from weak eyes strained while at school. If your child has weak eyes attend to them at once while the child is young and the eyes can be strengthened. Perhaps it may only require glasses for a short time.

We are specialist in children's eye troubles. Bring your child to us. No charge for consultation or examination.

Boys'

Clothing!

Judge the Boys' Clothing we show this season by the best you ever saw; judge by the best you'll find. Look at the tailoring—it's as well done, as though the Suits were for men. Look at the bits of daintiness—silk embroidery, braiding or what not. Your own careful fingers would do it no better. We're as proud of this Boys' Clothing as are the Boys who get into it. So are the mothers of carefully dressed boys proud of it. We've been selling more and more Boys' Clothing as the months go by. We'll sell more than ever this fall—because it will pay you to buy of us.
